The Plan for One Great University: OGU 2003-2005

In the summer of 2003 the Troy State University System move from the plan to increase cooperation among institutions in the system to the development of what was referred to internally as “One Great University” (OGU). This meant shifting specific objectives that must be completed by August 1, 2005 in order to merge the three independently accredited institutions in the system into one university--Troy University.

Below are the objectives developed by each of the senior vice chancellors of the university and their faculty and staff to reach that goal. The charge was to complete these objectives by August 1, 2005. Some objectives were completed in 2003 and 2004 and others in 2005. Some objectives will be continued into 2005-2006 and become part of the next strategic plan, and first for Troy University, tentatively called Troy University: Vision 2010.
